

Download An Easy To Understand Guide To Cleaning Validation

Generally speaking, when one thinks of cleaning validation, the first thing that comes to mind is “prevention of cross-contamination”, which obviously applies only when equipment is used for manufacturing more than one product. Another option is a short-term lease on a pumping system and vessel cleaner, so you can evaluate the equipment in your production environment. Unfortunately, it’s not always that easy. As you know, life’s not always black or white. The same holds true for SEO. There’s actually something in the middle of the ‘white vs. black hat debate’ that I need to address.
