Financial economics is the branch of economics characterized by a "concentration on monetary activities", in which "money of one type or another is likely to appear on both sides of a trade". Its concern is thus the interrelation of financial variables, such as prices, interest rates and shares, as opposed to those concerning the real economy. It has two main areas of focus: asset pricing and ... Overview. The Interpretation, or Interpretation and Construction, clause clarifies that both parties to the Agreement have had the opportunity to review, or have legal counsel review, the document. The clause also declares that the circumstances surrounding the drafting of the Agreement, i.e. drafting of clauses or negotiations, shall not have any impact on the interpretation of the Agreement.
